A GENEALOGICAL ROMANCE

"Grandma's Stories" in the October Bulletin of this Society recalled to mind some of the stories my own Grandmother, Mariette Osborn Williams, told me when I was a child. It is to the following story that I owe my interest in genealogy, for I was commissioned by her "To find out how" she and my grandfather, William Brewster Williams, were related, and in trying to solve Grandmother's problem I also found what I believe verifies a story which Grandfather used to tell, beginning - "Once upon a time there was a man called Mungo Parko, way back on our family tree somewhere, whose real name was Moses Parks," -- to me he was a fairy-tale person, an adventurer who 'fought Injuns', who sailed the seas, and went to China --and the Chinese couldn't pronounce his real name Moses Parks so they called him "Mungo Parko."

The prettiest story which Grandmother told me and which became the foundation for my genealogical problem, was my favorite, and she always ended with "Now my dear, you must find the answer --how your grandfather and my Mother were related, and if your grandfather was really a descendant of Elder Brewster of the Mayflower, as he claims. I know I am, because my Grandmother was a Brewster, while his Aunt Sybil only married one."

Grandmother Williams always had a bed of Sweet Williams in her garden, carefully tended and given more than special attention -- or so it seemed to me. But one day I commented, "They aren't so very pretty Grandma", she gave me a withering look and retorted, "Well my little lady, whether you think them pretty or not, if it weren't for Sweet Williams you might not be here." Then she told how when a young girl of sixteen she played the organ in the little Church at Pittsford, N.Y. going out by stage from Rochester, where she lived, to spend Saturdays and Sundays with her cousins, the Bushnells. While there she met a young man named William Williams and thought he was "pretty handsome". But when she mentioned this to a friend in the School in Rochester where she taught music, the girl replied, "Well Mariette, you needn't set your cap for him, because he's my Sweet William." That was a challenge. The next Monday when ready to start for Rochester on the stage, Grandmother asked "Auntie Bushnell" if she might have some flowers from the garden to take home ... she picked a huge bouquet of Sweet Williams.

Now that same morning William Williams was also going to Rochester on the stage -- he was studying Law there -- so when Mariette climbed into the coach, in her sweeping hoop skirts and 'feeling Bonnet', she blushed prettily when she saw William just ahead of her. At that moment the horses started off briskly, the coach gave a lurch, clumsylike Mariette tripped on her hoops, and the Sweet Williams landed in a shower over the astonished Mr. Williams. Of course she apologized between blushes but Mr. Williams insisted "Perhaps that's a good omen". At any rate that was the beginning of 'keeping company' with William and a courtship that eventually stretched out into more than fifty years of "better and worse", as Grandmother put it. And that was why Sweet Williams were the guardians of the family posey beds.

When the wedding invitations were being sent out, it was discovered that the name William Brewster of Rochester was on each of their lists, "Well, I never", said Mariette's mother, Saleury Ann Osborn. "Tell me, William, how do you happen to know him?" "Why shouldn't I know him", said William, "He's my Uncle ...married to Aunt Sybil my father's sister, besides that, I'm named for him William Brewster." "Well, if that don't beat all. Guess we must be related somehow...because he's my second cousin. My mother was a Brewster, and she was his cousin." And down through the years, the great family joke was that my Grandfather and Grandmother were related, but nobody could figure out how. Moreover my Grandfather claimed that there were Brewsters back in his family somewhere...but he didn't know where. Anyhow he had the name.

But in genealogical research patience is a virtue and by the process of the k and double check, I find that in this story are all the clues of a fascinating but very complicated genealogical puzzle. I only wish my Grandmother and Grandfather could have had the answer in their lifetimes.. They were both right... they were both descendants of the Brewster they revered, Elder Brewster of the Mayflower.

Marietta E. Rudd.

NOTES OF THE SOCIETY

It is with sincere regret that we record the death of Mrs. Flora Elizateth Flint, on Nov. 23. Mrs. Flint was the daughter of Warren B. and the late Jennie Waldron Potter and the wife of Mr. Ralph N. Flint. The sympathy of the Society is extended to Mr. Flint and the sons whom she left.

We are indebted to Mrs. George W. Moran, Past-President and present Director of the Huguenot Society of Michigan, for a complete report of the second annual meeting held in Jackson on October 16th. It is of interest because several members of this Society took an active part in the proceedings. Besides Mrs. Moran there were Mrs. O. D. Heavenrigh, Mrs. Lloyd De Witt Smith, Mr. George L. Austin who was elected 2nd Vice-President, Mr. Roy E. McFee, the speaker of the day, and Mrs. Henry C. Bowen who becomes the new Registrar. Congratulations.

From Alvah E. Knapp, Editor, we have received a bulletin of the Knapp Family Association of America. Mrs. Wm. F. Carter, now of Indianapolis, Indiana and one of the first editors of our Bulletin is a Vice-President of the Knapp Association.

At the November meeting of the Society the Program Chairman, Mr. Oliver S. Smith held a "Genealogical Clinic" for the benefit of beginners in genealogical research. Mr. Smith and Mrs. Frances I. S. Judd told of their own experiences in running down clues and suggested many sources of information. It was an interesting meeting and we hope another "clinic" may be held.

From a recent Bulletin of the Detroit Institute of Arts we learn that Mr. Francis Waring Robinson has been appointed Curator of European Art. Mr. Robinson is a native of Connecticut and a graduate of Princeton University in the class of 1929. He has spent several years in travel and research in Europe. He is now engaged in research on ancient glass and the preparation of a catalogue of the early Christian gold-glass in the sacred museum of the Vatican Library in Rome. He is also an active researcher in genealogy.

The Society voted at the last meeting to join the recently organized Detroit Council for Local History. Our President, Mr. Clarence Reynolds Martin had been made Vice-President of the Council and it was decided that he should represent the Society on the Council, the purpose of which is to co-ordinate the work of the various organizations in Detroit that are interested in preserving the history of this locality.

Mrs. E. B. Kresge, who is a collector of old letters, reports that she recently purchased one that may be of interest to members of the Strohm family. It was written by John Strohm of Pennsylvania to Isaac Strohm of New Fairfield, Greene County, Ohio. She will be glad to let any one see it who is interested.

Interest in genealogy seems to be spreading far and wide. Mrs. James McGlynn calls our attention to an article in the November issue of "American Cookery" (of all places) entitled "What's in a Name?", by Grace Igo Hall. We also have a copy of a chapel talk given by Professor Howard Robinson to the students of Oberlin College on the same subject, using the surnames of students for illustration. We are indebted to Mrs. J. Arthur Daniel for this interesting article.

The Colorado Genealogical Society has begun the publication of a magazine "The Colorado Genealogist". An interesting feature is a brief account of new members, an introduction to the Society as it were. Would that be a good idea for us to copy?

There were 63 members and 5 visitors present at the last meeting.

DAVIS FAMILY GENEALOGY

From the Davis family record book started by Levi B. Davis and in the possession of Mrs. Grace (Davis) McGinnis, 377 Cambridge Drive, Mt. Clemens, Michigan

(Contributed by Floyd A. Church)

At present he is busy writing acrostics for his family and numerous friends. He is the best educated of any of the Davises in his generation. Small in stature, as spry as a weasel, always jolly and good natured. All called him "Uncle Ned". In his latter life he was a farmer. Came from Western New York in the fall of 1842. He taught school and bought a new farm in Bay Macomb Co. Michigan. He was married three times. First married Hannah Curtis in 1810. Lived at Covington a part of the time and traveled the circuit in that region. Had six or seven boys, to wit, Lorenzo, Parmenio, Francisco, Milo, Joshua, Ward and Warner. When Hannah died he married his brother Marshall's widow and had two boys-- Calvin and Bela. Calvin died young. Then Sally died and he married Mrs. Sophia Bentley, widow of Preston D. Bentley, who died and left him alone in the world at the age of 93 yrs.

"Lorenzo Davis was born in the town of Covington, Genesee Co. N. Y., April 29 1812 and married Minerva Derty June 11, 1838. Was for a number of years a traveling preacher in the M. E. Church. He located in Ann Arbor. Was County Clerk a no. of terms and also proprietor of a paper. He now lives on a little farm and is farming. Had five children, to wit James Edwards, William Wirt, Charles Henry, Lorenzo and Walter Curtis. James E. and Charles are printers in Ann Arbor. (Lorenzo, Minerva and James E. died about 1889). James married when very young and only lived with his wife a year or two and then left her. I do not know the cause of separation.

Lorenzo graduated from the Michigan University in 1875 and went to California with three or four classmates and founded what is known as the "Scholastic Gymnasium" at Berkley near the California State U. It is a preparatory school of the University. He has made his mark in life as an educator and financially his life is a success. (Married and died about 1889).

The balance of the boys are farmers at or near Ann Arbor, and are not doing as well as they ought considering their advantages in life. Lorenzo died in California about May 10 1889. Minerva died in Ann Arbor about (Jan. 1889). Charles H. died in Ann Arbor about March, 1889. Lorenzo Sen. died in Ann Arbor December 1889).

"Parmenio Davis was born in the town of Covington, Genesee Co., N. Y. about 1814. He lived to be an old bachelor before marrying, he was a very successful physician and amassed quite a fortune. When a young M. D. he boarded at a Mrs. Showerman's in Ypsilanti. They had a bright pretty girl baby and Dr. "Par" became strongly attached to her. One day, as he was playing he says to Mrs. Showerman "May I have this little one for a wife if I wait till she is grown." "Mrs. Showerman laughed and said "Yes". Little did she think that he would. The doctor waited patiently and in the course of time the baby that he had trotted on his knee, bloomed into a fair maiden he proposed and was accepted so "All is well that ends well." Parmenio married Carlista Showerman, had four children, to wit, Ellen S., Don Lewis, Fred S. and Guy. (Parmenio died of cancer about 1888) (Dorlissa died of cancer about 1889).

"Ellen S. married James N. Wallace, a furniture dealer in Ypsilanti. Had six children, to wit, Frank Davis, Edward Allen, Mary Ellen, Herford and Nathan P. Mr. Wallace is a very respected Christian gentleman is a small dark-complected, fine looking man. Ellen is tall, has light hair-very light- and light blue eyes, and none too handsome. A very intelligent Christian lady. She had the misfortune to lose the sight of one of her eyes.

"Lewis is a grocer in Ypsilanti. A nice gentleman and fine looking. Fred is a druggist. Proprietor of Central Drug Store Ypsilanti.

Guy is a druggist's clerk. (Guy married Miss Richards).

(Fred died Oct. 1894. Was married _____) (Louis married Miss Sweet).

Milo Morillo (Mudge) Davis was born in Covington, Genesee Co., N. Y., Feb. 26, 1821. Moved to Michigan in 1839. Was married to Nancy M. Andrus June 1844.

Had six children.

Albert Eugene, who died in fancy.

Lucelia L., Marior B. Flora L., Ida M., and Clara Belle.

Lucelia is an old maid. (Married Byron Norton have one child) Marion B. married Larmon G. Havens. She had four children to wit, Blanche, Mildred, Albert and Clara.

"Flora L. married Watson Norton and has two children to wit, Watson and Gertrude. (Flora died about June 1st, 1891).

"Ida M. married Eugene Lamb, had one child, Levira.

"Clara B. married Dr. Albert Yates.

"Lucellia married Byron Norton.

"FRANCILLO S FAMILY"

"Francillo Florillo (Vacey) lived to be a bachelor then married Mary Lyon and had one girl - Nellie. Then Mary died. "Vacey" then married Mary Urhoon (?). They have one boy - Ward. Nellie married _____ and had children _____. (Died about 1888). (Ward married Edna Paich (?).

Frank is a farmer and is modest but social, and when he once breaks through the crust he is sparkling with wit and as original as any man you may meet. He is a good singer and a good musical "critique". I cannot leave him without saying he is a true friend, an honest gentleman, consequently, must be the "noblest work of God...".

"Joshua Ward married Harriet Huntoon. They had six children, to wit, Harry, Frank, Adelia, Ben Follet, Josie and Mary.

Frank is a lawyer and teacher.

Hal is a miller.

Ben is an editor.

Adelia is a teacher. (Adelia married twice and was divorced both times.) They are all good musicians. J. Ward is a good man as his political principle will admit of. Is a miller by trade. He lives at Elk Rapids, Michigan.

"Warner Davis commenced reading theology and just after he had license to exhort he was taken sick with brain fever and when he recovered he was blind, strong medicine and the terrible pain had destroyed the optic nerve. He married Mina Humphrey and had three children to wit; Addie, Francillo and Amelia.

Watner lives in the town of Ray on a small farm. Warner Davis died at his home in Ray, Friday, Aug. 6, 1886, aged 59 years, 18 months and 23 days.

Mina H. Davis married Mr. _____ and has dropped out of sight.

VITAL RECORDS FROM "THE DETROIT GAZETTE" 1817-1830
Collected by Beulah Puffer Kresge

Mr. Graham was a young man of probity and industrious habits from Clinton Oneida Co. N. Y. which place he left with the intention of becoming a resident in this territory.

June 4, 1819. At his house on the River Rouge, last Monday Mr. Thomas Sargeant, of a wound received from an Indian on the 26th ult.

Tonquish, Indian chief, brother of Waogan, was shot the following day (May 27) on the River Rouge. His son, also was slain.

June 11, 1819. Three or four days ago Waogan, was found dead a few miles up the River Rouge----he was scalped and his scalp was hanging on a stick, which was stuck in the ground near his head. Waogan was a quarrelsome and mischievous Indian and was, as the Indians say, constantly using his endeavors to promote a quarrel of some kind. After the affair on the River Rouge which resulted in the death of young Tonquish his behavior was very insolent to the relatives of the deceased whom he stigmatized as cowards for not revenging the death of their kinsman and advised them to seek revenge. This conduct of Waogan alarmed the well-disposed Indians and they came to the determination to put him to death and the sentence was executed immediately.

June 18, 1819. In this city on Sunday morning last, of a lingering illness, which he bore with fortitude, Mr. George E. Watson, of the late firm of Lecuyer and Watson, and son of Elkanah Watson Esq. of Albany N. Y. aged 26 years. The Rev. Mr. Pollard performed the funeral service.

July 16, 1819. On Wednesday evening the 14th inst. Mr. Royal Johnson, a merchant of this place, after a severe illness for the greater part of six months and in the 30th year of his age. He has left a wife and three children to mourn his loss.

Aug. 6, 1819. At Maguaga on the 22d ult. Mrs. Sarah Hosmer wife of Mr. Artemus Hosmer.

Aug. 6, 1819. The two Indians (says the W. Reserve Chronicle) who were executed at Huron for the murder of Wood and Bishop, suffered the sentence of the law with unconcern, any further than that they hated to appear before the Great Spirit with halters about their necks, and should have preferred being shot or tomahawked and one would have been glad to live till he had killed six more white people, in order to make up the even number of twenty, having as yet, killed but fourteen.

Aug. 27, 1819. From the Albany Gazette. American Officers attached to the expedition of Don Francisco Xavier Mina, against the kingdom of Mexico.

Oct. 1, 1819 (Friday) We learn with sincere regret that Mr. Ogilvie, one of the British boundary Commissioners, died at Amherstburgh last Wednesday.

The following particulars relative to the death of the Duke of Richmond, are from a Sackets Harbor paper. "The Duke had been on a visit to the Upper Province and on his return, intending to visit Richmond, a new settlement, he undertook to walk through the woods for about 30 miles. The fatigue was too great, he also had a cold, it brought on a fever, and death soon ensued.

Oct. 8, 1819. (From the Pittsburgh Gazette) At the Bay of St. Louis, Lieut. Isaac Eugene Craig, fourth son of Major Isaac Craig, of this city. Another youth of promise and of worth is added to the list of victims to the detestable, the horrid custom of duelling. Lieut. Craig fell, in an affair of honor, with Lieut. Maul on the 26th day of July, in his 23d year.

Oct. 8 1819. From the Boon's Lick Advertiser of Sept. 3, 1819. Death of Dr. William Baldwin of the U. S. Navy—he was attached to the Scientific Expedition, destined to explore the Missouri, but was compelled to stop at Franklin in consequence of ill health.

Oct. 15, 1819. On the 18th instant, at his mansion house in Portsmouth, Hon. John Langdon, formerly a Senator in Congress, and more recently Governor of New Hampshire.

Washington City, Sept. 27.

Died at port d'Espagne in the Island of Trinidad, on board the U. S. schr. Nonsuch, on the 24th of August last, Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry. His malady was a malignant fever with which he was seized at the mouth of the river Oronoco. He was attended by two able physicians, but so virulent was the disease, that on the fourth day after its commencement, he was reduced to the lowest state of existence.

The name Bogaardt was borne by an ancient and noble race. In 1423 William Bogaardt was Schout of the city of Dordrecht. His son, Adam was born there and became Professor of Medicine and Rector of the Academy of Leuven, where he died in 1482. His son Jacob Bogaardt was First Physician to Antwerp. At the age of thirty-six he was Professor of Medicine and Rector of the Academy at Leuven. His medical publications and manuscripts may be seen in the Public Library of Antwerp. He died July 27, 1520. A Bogaardt Coat of Arms is shown in "Colonial Families of America", Vol. XV.

Jan Wyten Bogaert was Minister of the Remonstrants. One of the Bogaerts was Receiver General of the Dutch Provinces. He it was who was the model for the "Gold Weigher" by Rembrandt.

Hendrick Boogaert in 1547 was "Regent van de Huyssetten am de Oude Zide". He held the same office in 1548 and 1549 in Amsterdam, Holland. From 1590 to 1606 William Jans Boogaert was Kirk Meester van de Nieuwe Zxts Kappel" at Amsterdam. In 1611 Jan William Bogaert was "Commissioner of Small Matters" at Amsterdam Jan Bogaert being "Deputy Sheriff".

The name Boomgaertdt, Boomgaert, Bongard, Boomgaard in all of its various spellings has usually emerged in American families as Bogart, Bogert, and Bogardus. The word in Dutch meant a group of fruit trees - an orchard. As a surname it was sometimes preceded by Wyten or Van den when it mean from the orchard. When preceded by Iden it signified in the orchard. These prefixes have been quite generally discontinued both here and in Holland. Evert Williamsze Bogard because of his Latin scholarship added "us" to Evert and Bogard and became Everhardus Bogardus whose fame as early minister of the old Dutch Reformed Church in New Amsterdam (New York City) has been ever shadowed by his celebrity as the husband of Anneke Jans, whose "Dominie's Botwrie" and "Trinity Church" property holdings have inveigled so many Bogart descendants (real and imaginary) into being victimized by unscrupulous lawyers, who have represented to them that the descendants still have a claim upon this property.

The Christian names most frequently used by the Bogarts were Jan, Johannes, Jacob, Cornelis, Gysbert, Teunis, and Nicholas. Many times they were recorded followed only by the Christian names of their fathers. In tracing Dutch families it is helpful to take this fact into account as the practice was common, not only with sons but with daughters. Thus Jan, son of Cornelis, would be Jan Cornelisz, or Annetje daughter of Cornelis would be Annetje Cornelisze, the Bogart (or whatever the surname might be) being entirely omitted. In some cases the surnames were permanently dropped and many descendants of the early Dutch settlers use only an ancestor's Christian name as a last name. This was true of some of the Bogart family.

During the seventeenth century members of several branches of the Boogaert, etc., family emigrated to this country, settling in New York, Albany, Staten Island, N. Y., in New Jersey, particularly at Hackensack and along the Hudson River. A few years ago it was estimated that the collateral descendants of these different branches in America numbered nearly 5,000,000.

Near Leerdam, Holland a few miles from the North Sea, in the village of Schoenderwoert (beautiful polder - land - redeemed from the water) was the home-stead of the family of Teunis (Thonisz) Bogaert. His son Laurens Thonisz with his family also resided at Schoenderwoert, and there, May 3, 1667, he made his will, which is deposited at The Hague, Netherlands, with the State Archives in the Judicial Archives of Leerdam.

The will of Laurens Thonisz Bogaert was drawn at the home of his son-in-law, Jan Roscam, and mentions three living children, two sons-in-law, and one grandson. One bequest was to his son Jan Laurens, then residing in Nieu Nederlandt. This Jan Laurens was born at Schoenderwoert about 1630 and m. Cornelia Evertsze (daughter of Evert) and was known in New Harlem, and New Amsterdam (New York City), as Jan Laurens Bogaert. He was an emigrant ancestor of R5 Cornelia Ann (Bogart) Schureman, wife of Z5 Frederick Schureman, previously mentioned.

Jan Laurens (or Louwe, or Laurensze) Bogaert with his wife Cornelia Everts (Evertsze) and two children, aged seven and four years, sailed from Amsterdam on the Bonte Coe (Spotted Cow), Capt. Jan. Bergan, Master. The ship was well laden with passengers, several of whom were French refugees from Mannheim in the Palatine.

Cornelia Evertsze the wife Of Jan Laurens (or Louens) Bogaert was possibly related to several Netherlanders who settled on Long Island and Manhattan Island and who also were known as - Evertszen, or - Evertsze. Jan Evertse was a member of the Dutch Reformed Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 11, 1660. There were a number of adherents of the Dutch Church by the name of Evertsze, Everts and Evertszen these names however only indicate the father's Christian name. Until the surname of Cornelia is established it is, of course, impossible to trace her ancestry.

R1 Jan Louwe and Q1 Cornelia (Everts) Bogaert settled at Bedford, Long I., now a part of Brooklyn, N. Y., where they lived for nine years. In 1662 they removed to New Haerlem to the Montagne farm, which they had previously bought. In 1665-6 Jan Louwe Bogaert was magistrate of Harlem. Nov. 30, 1666 he and his wife Cornelia Everts were received as members of the Dutch Reformed Church at Harlem. Dec. 9 1669 Jan Louwe sold a lot on Hocrn's Hook which he had purchased in 1677. Another lot drawing in 1691 is described in a deed from the town dated March 21 1701

"There is set off for Jan Louwe Bogert, for the right of 16 morgen of land and an erf right, a piece of land lying in the bend of Hellgate beginning from the southwest corner of the Hop Garden, by a birch tree, till to a white oak tree which stands by a small swamp (creupelbosje) marked J. B. L. and J. D. L. thence towards River, past a rock marked J. L. B. and J. D. L. and so on to the beach till to the end of a meadow north of a rocky hill, as it is at present fenced in." (The "J. L. B." stands for Jan Louwe Bogert and the "J. D. L." for Jan de Lamater.)

Nov. 25 1695, Jan Louwe sold his property at Bedford, Long I. The Hocrn's Hook property which he owned at Harlem is now a part of East River Park.

The Harlemites were accustomed to cutting across the Bogert meadows on their way to the mill the village and the church. Jan Louwe brought suit and in the winning of the case the inviolability of Harlem's fence lines was preserved.

Sept. 21, 1706 Jan Louwe Bogert sold his Harlem farm for 1650 to Capt. Johannes Benson whose father Dirck Bensingh, from Groningen, Holland comes into this history later. In the spring of 1707 Jan Louwe Bogaert removed to New York City where he had purchased a small farm near Chatham Square which lies between the entrances to Manhattan Bridge and the old Brooklyn Bridge in what was then Manhattan Island's southernmost settlement.

May 27, 1707 Jan Louwe and Cornelia Ann (Evertsze) Bogaert united by letter with the Reformed Dutch Church in N. Y. Jan Louwe was about seventy years old when he retired from active life.

Children of R1 Jan Louwe and Cornelia (Evertsze) Bogaert:

1. Pieter (2) Janszen Bogaert, b 1656 at Leerdam, Holland, (probably at Schoonderwoert in Leerdam County) sometimes called Pater Jan Louwe in Harlem records. Sept. 11, 1686 a license was granted him to marry Fytie (or Feytie or Sophia) Vlierboom dau of Matthys Vlierboom, of New Albany. They were married Sept. 29, 1686. In 1689 and 1689 Peter Bogart saw service as a soldier under Leisler, holding the fort at New York. In 1717, the government paid him for arms given up in 1691. 9 children.
2. Gysbert (2) Janszen Bogaert, b at Bedford, L. I. in 1663 was bapt. at Brooklyn, N. Y. Sept. 30, 1663. Wit: Teunis Gysbertse Bogaert and Sara de Rapalie. He m Annatje Laurens Low, dau of Laurens Janszen Low (son

KING AND FORCE FAMILIES

Contributed by Helen H. Ellis.

The Force family of New Jersey and New York States.

David Force and Jerusha Updike Force moved from a farm near Princeton, New Jersey, about 1799 to Tompkins County, New York, and then to the town of Tyrone Schuyler County, New York. David was nineteen at the time of the battle of Princeton and helped to care for the wounded. Jerusha was a child at that time and, as the battle was partly fought over her home farm, she had to be taken to a place of safety. Several of the children were born in New Jersey before the move to New York. David died sometime after 1815 and Jerusha married Stiles Beach. David's grave has been lost. Jerusha is buried behind the Baptist Church at Altay, New York.

Children:

Anna, born Jan. 24, 1791, died July 2, 1877, married Joshua King.

Benjamin, born Sept. 16, 1792, died Apr. 27, 1853, married (1) Sophie Caswell, (2) Sarah Russell.

Eleanor, born Apr. 16, 1796, died Sept. 21, 1882, married Thomas Caswell.

Sally, no dates, married Daniel Beam.

John, no dates.

Polly, born Oct. 4, 1801, died Feb. 19, 1840, married Silas Kendall.

David Skinner, born March 19, 1805, died Jan. 19, 1880, married (1) Eliza Day, (2) Sarah Childs.

Hannah, born Apr. 3, 1808, died . . ., 1878, married Andrew German.

THE KING FAMILY OF NEW YORK STATE AND INDIANA.

Joshua King of Tompkins County, New York, and Anna Force, daughter of David Force and Jerusha Updike Force, were married in New York State and sometime before 1813 moved to the town of Jersey, County of Steuben, New York. Sometime before 1823 they sold their New York land and went west by Flat-boat to North Bend, Ohio. Later, they went into Fayette County, Indiana in a section known as Yankeetown, near Bentonville. This town was mainly populated by Primitive Baptists, many of them having come in a group with their minister, Elder Minor Thomas, from Covert, Seneca County, New York. Joshua King's parents are not known, but he probably was a grandson of Barzilla King, of Covert.
